The Conference 2024

We have reached the 7th edition of the Florence Conference which from this year takes on its new name "Florence Veterinary Business Conference"

In recent years we have started from the topics of Practice Management and then arrived at team dynamics and then concentrated in the latest conferences on the world of Clinical Communication.

On our stage there have been international speakers from old Europe (Spain, UK, Belgium, Holland, Norway and Italy), from the United States, Canada and Latin America. Each of them brought their experience to the Florentine stage, shared their studies and gave us their contribution to the development of modern Veterinary Medicine in step with the times.

This year too we are offering a very high level program which we will once again carry out in the enchanting Florentine setting and which we will also broadcast once again in live online streaming.

Our speakers will take a snapshot of the professional veterinary world and, as we have always tried to do in the past, they will also propose tools to put into practice from the next day to work better, to be better prepared and more aware of how and where the our profession.

Simultaneous translation service for onsite and online participants

The conference will be translated into the three languages of the event. It will be possible to follow the various interventions in the chosen language both remotely and on site.

Our Speakers

Alison Lambert

Following qualification from Liverpool University in 1989, Alison worked in practice for several years before pursuing a business career with Hills Pet Nutrition and MARS, where she discovered the passion for the customer experience that her award-winning company, Onswitch, is renowned for today. Established in 2001, Onswitch promotes customer-centred practice so pets, horses and livestock receive the best care; providing research, marketing, CPD and business consultancy with an effective, innovative, straight-talking and client-led approach.

Alison is published widely, and regularly speaks at key international veterinary congresses and events

Pere Mercader

Pere studied veterinary medicine following in his father's footsteps, but he immediately realized that he was cut out for the clinic, but that he instead had a certain familiarity with numbers. Thus, to give pets more chances, and after an extremely educational internship in a multinational animal nutrition company, he focused his interest on the management of veterinary clinics.

In the following years, Pere dedicated himself to studying and teaching on the profitability of clinics, the prices of veterinary services, the productivity of employees, the economic evaluation of veterinary centers, the key management indicators with the ambitious objective that veterinary professionals obtained a more dignified economic return in line with their commitment. This work culminated in the creation of VMS, a data analysis company specializing in the veterinary channel, to which he currently dedicates much of his time.

He recently founded with his colleague and friend Miguel Ángel Díaz ("Pancho") the Veterinary Management Academia (VMA) project, whose first product is an online course on veterinary clinic management.

Paolo Peppucci

Veterinarian and founder of three veterinary hospitals in Italy, Paolo has accumulated extensive experience in managing complex veterinary facilities, supervising a team of over 130 professionals. Expert in Practice Management, he has held the role of speaker in numerous international conferences. Thanks to a solid academic background, enriched by a Master's degree in Lean Professional and a certification in Veterinary Management from the University Bocconi in Milan is currently dedicated to consultancy for companies in the sector veterinarian. Its expertise allows it to offer strategic support to companies aimed at achieving business objectives, with a particular focus on developing skills in leadership, team management, effective communication and optimization of business processes

Our Speakers

Ivan Lopez

Iván comes from a family of veterinary doctors, his father and older brother share the same passion. He graduated from the University of Concepción in 1991, worked for a couple of years in a minor clinic, then chose to develop in the commercial and marketing area, holding various positions in multinationals in the pet market in his native country. Since 2008 he has been executive director of Vetcoach, an organizational and business consultancy firm, specializing in the pet veterinary industry for Latin America, where his vision is to create "a new standard for the veterinary world". Ivan, has completed studies in marketing, innovation, consulting, coaching, positive psychology and social-emotional skills. He is the creator of the Positively initiative (since 2011) to improve the level of well-being of veterinary students and doctors. He is a strategic consultant for companies on organizational development and innovation, ARO Coach (organizational role analysis) and developer of high-value training programs for veterinary entrepreneurs and their teams, on management, well-being, communication skills and positive leadership. Ivan has written various management articles for veterinary journals and is an international lecturer in America and Europe.
